Emilio del Prado

There is one reason, and one reason alone, why the Canary Islands' second largest sibling attracts so many visitors – the beaches. Whether you like your beach life slow and sedentary or quick and crazy, Fuerteventura caters for all. With the most glorious swathes of gold in the archipelago – some would say in the whole of southern Europe – the island is a Mecca to both sun worshippers and water sports professionals alike.

THE CITY

Shaped like a leg dressed in plus-fours, the 340-kilometre gilt-edged coast surrounds a relatively flat interior of gentle hills and sweeping plains. Goat herders and fishermen once ruled the island, living a simple life of relative solitude. Nowadays, tourism is the driving force, centred around the lively resorts of Corralejo in the north, Jandía in the south, and more recently, Caleta de Fuste on the east coast.

DO & SEE

In all, the young and trendy surf set mingle with second home-owners from the less balmy regions of Europe. The latter happy for blue skies and high temperatures, and the former also seeking rolling waves and a rocking nightlife.

However, away from these visitor hubs the tranquillity of old is easy to find, even on the beaches - with such a profusion of broad sandy strips, towel space is never going to be a problem.

Away from the shoreline, desolate roads lined with squat, round windmills link tiny villages of sugar cube cottages. Here, the population ekes out an existence producing world renowned cheese and ruby red tomatoes.

Isla de Lobos

These days, despite its name – Wolf Island – you will not spot any saucer-eyed wolf packs lounging on the beach of this tiny island. What you will get, if you make the 3-kilometre ferry crossing, is that ‘get-away-from-it-all’ feeling.

BEACH LIFE

Fuerteventura has 152 beaches, more than any other Canary Island. Here is a selection of the best for a few different purposes.

Facilities

Close to the resort centre and its availing facilities, the town beach of Corralejo provides a safe, yet fun aquatic play area.

Address: Corralejo, Fuerteventura
More Info: Walk a few paces from downtown Corralejo

Nudists

This is the most southern of a string of 'clothing optional' beaches, located on the east coast of the Jandia peninsula in the south.

Address: Playa de Butihondo, Fuerteventura
Public Transport: Take bus number 6 from Corralejo to Puerto del Rosario, bus number 10 or number 1 from Puerto del Rosario to Morro Jable.

Privacy

Being quite hard to reach is a bonus for privacy seekers and this 5-kilometre stretch of white sand. This beach ticks all the right boxes if you are looking for acres of elbow room.

Address: Cofete, Fuerteventura

More Info: Closest point is Morro Jable. Not on bus route - best option is to rent a car.

Families

The gently sloping sands of this purpose-built resort are perfect for families with young children. The lack of dangerous currents means it is safe for bathers of all abilities.

Address: Caleta de Fuste, Fuerteventura

Public Transport: Take bus number 6 from Corralejo to Puerto del Rosario, bus number 3 from Puerto del Rosario to Caleta de Fuste.

DINING

Unsurprisingly, fish is predominant in most of the island's restaurants, especially those on the coast with swordfish, sea bass, octopus and limpets as some of the more favoured delicacies. Inland, the ingredients favour more pastoral palettes with goat, rabbit, gofio (roasted corn meal) and the famous Maxorata cheese on the menu. Most main dishes are served with the ubiquitous accompaniments of fiery red mojo sauce and wrinkled potatoes (papas arrugadas).

Bahia De Cata

Bahia De Cata is actually better known as Nestor's - friendly, all-you-can-eat barbecue at the weekend, with a good variety of international dishes with a Caribbean twist served weekdays. This place is renowned for its ribs.

Address: Caleta de Fuste, Fuerteventura

SHOPPING

You can take your pick of shopping experiences in Fuerteventura – stock up on duty-free goodies, capture some island souvenirs, add some colourful threads to your wardrobe or browse for some Canarian knickknacks at a market.

Corralejo's retail therapy centres can be found on the main road running through town, Avenida General Franco. If you want to dress like a surfer, try No Work Team for bleached t-shirts and surf set sunglasses. Where the road intersects with Calle Gran Canaria, on weekdays you will also find a local market selling curious African artefacts and local handicrafts.

The Centro Comercial Atlantico shopping centre is the main star in Caleta de Fuste's retail scene, with a variety of shops all under one roof selling jewellery, gifts, clothes and electrical goods. A market takes place on Saturday morning.

With most of the prices marked up for visitors, you will find lower price tags in Puerto del Rosario where tourism is not as rife. Most of the spending goes on along the two streets of Calle Leon y Castilla and Avenida Juan Bethencourt.
